On the 4th Anniversary of the first Fight for 15 Strike, we have the opportunity to stand with workers across the country and demand fair wages for all workers. It's important to send the message that we are united and that we are not alone. On November 29th, as part of a national movement for social and economic justice, we will take action and show that we have strength in numbers.

It's more important than ever to stand together and STOP the RACE to the BOTTOM.

Together we will fight for justice and fair wages. We will do whatever it takes to protect our hard-earned contract wins and fight to make sure that every worker's right to be part of a union and earn a decent wage is honored and respected.

We will not be divided or defeated.
